CLINICARE Wins ‘Company of the Year’

CALGARY, Alberta November 25, 2005 – CLINICARE Corporation proudly announces that they have been presented with the Canadian Health Informatics Awards for “Company of the Year” and “Corporate Citizenship” (for Small and Medium Canadian Companies). The Canadian Healthcare Information Technology Trade Association’s (CHITTA) Awards were presented at the inaugural Canadian Healthcare Informatics Awards Gala held at the Fairmont Royal York in Toronto November 24th.

CHITTA and COACH: Canada’s Health Informatics Association (COACH) announced the establishment of this Awards Program to recognize those individuals and companies who have demonstrated leadership, excellence and/or high level of service within the Canadian health informatics community.

“CHITTA is particularly proud and pleased to join with COACH in creating and nurturing the annual Canadian Health Informatics Awards as it enables the Canadian Health ICT community as a whole to celebrate the achievements of our industry for the betterment of healthcare to all Canadians”, said Steven Huesing, CEO of CHITTA. “CLINICARE was selected as ‘Company of the Year’ by an adjudication panel independent of CHITTA. The panel included CIOs of major health facilities and Government agencies, an Academic and an independent member of the healthcare ICT media based on nominations provided by CLINICARE’s customers.”

The panel assessed CLINICARE based on the following criteria; relationship management, delivery, product/service offering, growth, and commitment to research and development. A detailed description was provided by CLINICARE’s nominators who highlighted examples of how CLINICARE excelled at each of the criteria.

“It is extremely rewarding to have received this recognition,” says Dennis Niebergal, president and CEO of CLINICARE. “To be singled out from a very impressive Canadian healthcare IT vendor community is a reflection of the level of commitment shown by all our staff who truly believe that they are making a positive contribution to improving the standard of healthcare for Canadians.”
